CONSCIENCE CAMOUFLAGERS

"The voice of the people is the voice of God," says an old proverb. This, we take it, is the spirit in which the Premier of Ontario interprets the 40,000 majority cast in favour of the O.T.A. in the recent plebiscite. It is true that only 52 per cent. of the voters, and those largely in the rural sections, so expressed themselves; nevertheless, in a democratic country such as ours, the majority, irrespective of the percentage, counts and determines legislation. It is now up to the government to see that the O.T.A. is sincerely and efficiently enforced, and I pray that they may have light and courage to see their way to its enforcement.

But how this shall be done is the real question. The people of this province, both those who voted for the O.T.A., and many who voted for government control, many of whom were so motivated because they believed the O.T.A. has not been enforced and cannot be enforced—in a word, almost all the people of the province are curious, yea more, they are anxious to know, and to know soon, how the government proposes to enforce the O.T.A. As yet, the only word that has come from the Premier is a request to the people that they acquiesce, accept and help in the enforcement of an Act against which 48 per cent. of the people voted. The Premier must realize, for he has had much experience, both with legislation and with the people, that a mere pious request will fall on deaf ears, especially since it comes from one whose views on the liquor question are as well known as his.

Human nature is peculiar and the Premier had better not put much stock in his appeal, moral as it may be. It takes more than sermons, even when preached by as good a preacher as our Premier, to make people check their appetites and observe the strictest legislation, especially when it does not have a solid public opinion behind it.

The Attorney-General, Mr. Nickle, seems to be tackling the problem of the O.T.A. enforcement in a much more practical way. He has expressed himself as in favour of getting after the "big fellows," and stopping the flow of liquor at the spigot instead of at the glass. He knows that in order to achieve this, the Federal law must be changed, because it legalizes the manufacture and export of liquor in the Province of Ontario. His attempt to get the officials at Ottawa to see eye to eye with him in matters of even licensing new distilleries have failed. The government at Ottawa has sole jurisdiction and responsibility for the granting of new licenses; several of these have recently been granted. It must be profitable to start distilleries even in Ontario. The Federal Government has refused to even consult with Mr. Nickle with reference to this matter. Not all the liquor that pours out of these distilleries goes abroad, either. Too much of it exported from Ontario, ostensibly for Cuba and other fictitious places, has found its way around the bay, back home. It is the most flagrant piece of camouflage we know of.

There is another insurmountable difficulty with which the enforcement of the O.T.A. has to contend,—a condition equally as bad. I refer to the fact that Ontario is surrounded by wet provinces, to which the bootleggers have easy access. In the face of this situation, can the province be kept dry, I ask? Is it not true, that so long as liquor can be secured there will be people to drink it? And for this reason there will be others more unscrupulous who will take the chance of getting caught in order to make an easy dollar. In the long run, for the bootlegger, the matter of getting caught is a question of arithmetic, of addition and subtraction. As long as there is a balance on the assets side of the ledger there will be bootleggers.

I am one of those who, though theoretically a prohibitionist, was in favour of government control, because I believe that facts, facing the the O.T.A. was not being sincerely nor effectively enforced, and because I regarded government control as a pedagogic step to educate people along the lines of moderation and abstinence, and also because I wanted to see the bootlegging curse eliminated. An as ethical teacher, I know that the process of change in human nature proceeds from within outward and not from without inwards. Under the circumstances, even if a force ten times as large as the one now employed were engaged, and the sentence for O.T.A. infractions and first offences changed from a fine to imprisonment, the chances of eliminating the bootlegger are as good as the proverbial "All the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't put Humpty-Dumpty together again."

In the face of human nature, and the outward circumstances, I repeat the question, which I ask because I sincerely wish to see the Act enforced: How does the government expect to make Ontario a bone-dry province?

I note also that of late it is becoming popular to form vigilance committees to help enforce the O.T.A. I advise my prohibitionist friends that instead of forming vigilance committees, who may be lead to take the law into their own hands, and become obnoxious to the people by their reprehensible spying methods, it were better that those organizing vigilance committees spend their time putting their heads together and working out a practical plan of O.T.A. enforcement. They will be wizards if they can do it, but, in view of what my dry friends have done, don't you think it is up to them to suggest to the government and the people a practical plan of law enforcement of the O.T.A.?

There is a final question which I should like to have my prohibition friends answer, and it is not an academic question either. How do they regard one, who having voted for the O.T.A., yet has a good wet stock in his cellar which he brings out on social evenings to entertain his friends? What about the voter for the O.T.A., who on principle does not have it in his cellar or in his cupboard, but yet does not mind taking a drink at his friend's house just to be sociable? There are many business men and manufacturers who voted for the O.T.A., though they themselves drink, and have plenty of it stored away to drink, but who believe it is better for their workers not to have beer or whiskey. Is this sort of thing likely to cultivate a respect for the O.T.A.?

But I am anxious to know how the supporters of the O.T.A. regard such people? My own view is that such people are moral hypocrites and conscience camouflagers. The man who has voted for the O.T.A. has no moral right to take a drink, excepting under doctor's orders.

An answer will be appreciated because I know that I am merely voicing the opinion of hosts of others who, like myself, are in favour of the strictest enforcement of the law.

I am opposed to local option because I do not wish to make a cheap and hollow mockery out of a law which the people have twice sustained and because I believe in law and order. As long as a law is on the statute book, it is the duty of every honest citizen to help sustain it. Local option is only a subterfuge to take the teeth out of the law and, what is worse, to demoralize the province.

Freiman, Louis Fitch and H. M. Caiserman spoke. All pledged themselves as workers. Arrangements were in charge of A. Levin, R. A. Darwin and Rabbi Zlotnick.

every friday

The presence in Toronto, this week, of young Maurice Samuel, Zionist worker, meant chiefly the presence of the author of "You Gentiles," and discussions and revival of discussions of the book. "You Gentiles" became famous upon its recent publication, and the centre of as much praise, blame and controversy in magazines and papers as any author could hope for. Its readers, critics and reviewers became divided into two general classes of approvers and disapprovers; they were brought together around a subject as fruitful in argument as was ever chosen.

For years Jews and Gentiles have met on platforms, at banquet tables, in symposiums, pulpits and business groups, to tell each other how nice they are respectively and together, and how easy to get along with and live beside. Many of them meant what they said, at least they were working toward a good end, that of neighbourliness and good-will. Of late years it has not been so necessary to tell the Gentiles how nice they are, as it has been urgent to assure them that Jews are valuable as fellow-citizens. To this purpose, men and organizations have dedicated themselves, anxious to show that Jews have great contributions to make to the Gentile world, that while they are different, they are not alien, that they can and do form a co-operating part of a harmonious whole. Anything which comes from the Gentiles to impair this action is frowned upon and condemned. The Henry Fords and the Hilaire Belloc's are denounced as vipers causing strife and race hatred. Leaders of thought among both Gentiles and Jews are labouring constantly for better relations between Jews and Gentiles in the mass, and, the wish father to the thought, frequently anticipate that golden time when all men will dwell together in harmony and friendship, regardless of race or religious belief.

Upon this entire picture bursts "You Gentiles," from the hand of a Jew who refuses "to utter the old untruthful courtesies tempering resentment with caution and tact." It is not our aim to review this book. The author himself admits that it was written in disregard of facile common sense, scholarship, science and history. Thus written from the heart, if read by the heart it is prophetic, sways the emotions, is clever, seethes with the passion of a people wronged for a long time in all the earth's corners, it makes fascinating listening. Recollected in tranquility it seems to us specious, a high-pitched diatribe and an evil book by the published expression of its basic contention.

This contention is that: "Jew and Gentile are two worlds and between them is an unbridgeable gulf. Wherever the Jew is found he is a problem, a source of unhappiness to himself and those about him." Samuel says that the primal difference between Jew and Gentile is the Jew's missionary view of life, the Jew's "definite and inescapable task" of living and dying to perpetuate his religious message to the world. Samuel says: "I do not believe that this primal difference between Jew and Gentile is reconcilable. There will be irritation between us as long as we are in intimate contact."

That we do not agree with Samuel is unimportant. That Samuel believes as he does, is unimportant, but what does give one pause is that in times when the hounds of anti-Semitism bay often and from many quarters, a Jew will so brazenly hand them something to go on, in this book, "You Gentiles." Why, writers of conscience have refused to review this book rather than give its arguments publicity and endanger the position of the Jew the slightest bit more, for it is incalculable damage that Samuel does, honestly, sincerely, and with the bewildering naivete of a man who will indulge himself in a recital of his personal reactions at the expense of his own people.

Samuel himself says that there are anti-Semites everywhere ready to kill, to destroy the Jews. Would he be unwelcome among them with the gift of "You Gentiles" available for the mere market price of the book? Many writers have refused to write such brilliant argument for the destruction of the Jews even for pay. Gertrude Atherton, for one, says that she has been approached to write anti-Semitic articles, but never by the same person twice. To those who did approach her, "You Gentiles" is something too good to be hoped for, coming as it does from the camp of the Jew, giving them the chance to call Samuel the spokesman of his race.

The author thunders: "From a public opinion which tolerates the slaughter of hundreds of negroes how far is it to the public opinion which will condone the slaughter of Jews? Let a spark but carry down far enough, down into the recesses of your animal natures." If he believes this to be true, then there can be no doubt that Samuel should be condemned for having written "You Gentiles." He is young, born in 1895, but not young enough to be thrown back into the water and if he knows the situation as he says he does, he has gone into the fellowship of the anti-Semites, however unintentionally. The publication of his book has only one good result: It raises the question of how free a Jewish writer dares to be; how frank may be his utterance outside the company of his own people?

TEMPLE EMANU-EL

The League of Nations luncheon was held as the opening meeting of the Sisterhood, on November 4, at the Temple. The guests of honour were Lady Drummond, head of the League of Nations in Quebec, and Warwick Chipman, K.C., the speaker. Miss Louise de Sola played the piano and Miss Mamie Lightstone sang.

Rabbi Merritt will speak Friday on "Six Years from Armistice Day." Temple players will produce the "Chocolate Soldier" early in January.

BRAHM SANDS CONCERT

Brahm Sands, 'cellist, who has been studying in Toronto with Carl Hambourg, will give a concert in Windsor Hall, on November 18, playing selections by Marcello, Bosterini, Bergolesi Golterman, Popper and Lindner.

SPANISH AND PORTUGUESE BAZAAR

The Spanish and Portuguese Bazaar which was held in the ballroom of the Windsor Hotel on October 28, 29 and 30, was officially opened by Mayor Chas. Duquette, of Montreal. He was received by Captain W. Sebag Montefiore, who introduced him. Jos. A. Dobrofsky moved a vote of thanks to the Mayor and Madame Duquette. The boy scouts gave the royal salute upon the Mayor's entrance.

Jos. A. Dobrofsky was manager of the entire bazaar.

Captain W. Sebag-Montefiore was president and treasurer.

Organization of the various booths and their conveners devolved upon Mrs. W. Sebag-Montefiore, general convener of the bazaar, and her associate, Mrs. V. S. Hart.

Miss Reba Goltman defrayed the expenses of the ballroom, and the fleurette booth was donated by her.

Mrs. M. Ruttenberg had charge of publicity.

M. Ruttenberg assisted. Miss Ida Seigler and Miss Lena Ashkaloney, of the CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW, cooperated, and Chas. Friedman, Walter R. Freidman and S. Gold handled the financial end of the bazaar.

Miss Hyalie Freeman and Miss S. Myers organized the grand march.

The Elysian Fields ballet was arranged by Geo. W. Shefler.

The winning number of the piano raffle was drawn by Alderman L. Rubenstein, delegated by the Mayor, who was unable to be present. The lucky number, 865B, was held by Miss Reba Goltman of Montreal. Miss Goltman re-donated the piano to the synagogue.

The diamond bar pin was won by Mrs. P. Dobrofsky, ticket No. 173; the gold wrist watch by M. Solomon; the model sailing yacht, by Saul Rubin; the Jacoby photo by H. Neumann; the Windsor doll by Miss Vera Hart; handmade tea napkins by Miss May Hyman. The Adair gown has not yet been raffled.

The executive committee thanks the conveners, assistants and donors. A list of donors will be published next week with a list of assistants.

Thanks are due chapters of Hadassah, Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity, Chi Chapter, Council of Jewish Women and the Sisterhoods of the Temple Emanu-El, Shaar Hashomayim, Bnai Jacob and boy scouts.

Reggie Hart, Clarence Michaels, Jess Ginsberg, Martin Wolff, Gordon Hart, Eddie Hart, Stanley Hart, Philip B. Hart, Al. Lessor, Laz. Rubenstein and Miss Rose Haimes helped in various ways.

BARON DE HIRSCH BOOK CLUB

REVIEW JUNIOR SECTION

All contributions for the Junior Section must be sent to CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW, 319 Bay Street, Toronto, Ontario. Any girl or boy is welcome to join our section and to contribute poems, essays, stories, riddles, etc. Just fill out this little card and mail it at once.

REVIEW JUNIOR SECTION:

I would like to join the Cousin Family of the CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW.

My name is .....

I live at .....

I am ..... years of age.

Come one! Come all! Let's have lots and lots and lots of new cousins. Ye Maker of Limericks says he'll write a limerick especially for every new cousin. And though I say it as shouldn't, Ye Maker of Limericks certainly can write pomes! (You'll note I said "pomes" and not "poems" there is a difference!)

We have decided to make this a "different" competition . . . . and to let you choose your own subject. There will be prizes for the best entries. There are absolutely no rules, except the usual ones that are observed in writing to us. You may write a story, an essay, a poem a comedy, a tragedy (I almost said, a melodrama!), a play, a thesis —what you will—and each will be judged on its own merits, with prizes for the best. So, cousins mine, you have carte blanche; choose your own subject and your own medium for expression and mail us the result AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. Everybody welcome.

Cousin David.

A number of interesting articles have already been received for our different competition, among them a story by Fannie Fleming; and an essay by a new cousin, TINY TIM. Let's have yours soon! Very soon! Or even sooner than that!

And here is a limerick for Tiny Tim . . . to whom we extend a hearty welcome!

There is a young writer named Tim
A welcome we'll all give to him.
He sent us a story;
It may bring him glory,
For perhaps it the contest will win.

Dear Girls and Boys:

I know, of course, that you, cousins mine, are really model children. But even model children, I have heard tell, will talk and jump and sometimes even scribble on the blackboard when "teacher" is away for a few minutes! Remember what a hubbub of excitement ensues? Can you imagine such noise throughout the school session, or better still, can you imagine actually learning your lessons under such conditions? Which is exactly what happens, you know, in many places. Frinstance, among the Yemenites in Palestine. Perhaps you have heard of this interesting, most orthodox sect among the Jews, who undertook the long and arduous journey from Southern Arabia across the Red Sea to settle in Palestine. A friend of mine who chanced upon one of their schools, told me that he was arrested by a babel of voices. Upon approaching the school, he found the teacher surrounded by a group of children (some small, and others even smaller), all wearing long ear-locks, who chanted the lesson in a loud voice, bending backwards and forwards in a quaint manner. It seemed so strange to my friend, who had taught school in Canada, but afterwards he found that there was a reason for the shouting. You see, there were only a few books among all the children, and so it was really difficult for each one to see the printed word. In fact, some of the pupils became adept in reading in any position, and could read the lessons upside down, or from left to right, just as easily as in the proper way. And since the teacher was ever ready to pounce on a laggard, why, they just simply had to shout so that he would see that they were in earnest! And the bending back and forth that seemed so strange to my Canadian friend, was really easily explained. . . for the pupils had to bend down to see the word, and then had to straighten up to give their shouted repetition its full force! . . . . The teacher of this group was very learned, and completely wrapped up in his Talmudic lore. His salary for a whole year was $20, and he wasn't always sure of getting that regularly. (And remember this was just a year or so ago!) As to how he managed to live on that. . . well, perhaps "his day" helped to keep body and soul together. By "his day," I mean this: Each of the parents would invite the teacher to his house for meals one day each week, or each month, depending on the number of the pupils. And so he lived and taught, happy in his work, and perhaps, if the truth be told, even happier in his dreams.

And now I shall leave you, dear cousins, for a while,

Cousin Judith.

365 Crawford Street,
Toronto.

Dear Cousin David:

While reading the REVIEW Junior Section, I noticed you have a new competition on. So I have at last decided to enter this competition. This competition I think is very good, as everybody has so many different ideas. What I hope is that all the other cousins will enter this competition and some new cousins like myself. I am not giving my real name now. I am enclosing my essay. No more news now. I remain,

Your cousin,
Tiny Tim.

Dear Tiny Tim:

I hope all our cousins, and "would-be" (as well as "should-be") cousins, read your letter very very carefully for you have said a great many things that I was about to say. I think, with you, that a competition such as we are now having is more interesting because it makes so few restrictions. . . . Will you write often, and tell us more about yourself? Dost like thy limerick?

Cousin David.

98 Beverley Street,

Dear Cousin Judith:

It is so long since I have written my first letter that I am sure you have forgotten all about me. I have a book of stories by Elma Ehrlich Levinger and in looking over it to-night, I found a very pretty story. I am sending it to you.

"Bookworm."

Dear Bookworm:

You are wrong and you are right . . . right, because it is a long time since you wrote us, and wrong, because we haven't forgotten you. I wish more cousins could read that book you mention. The stories are so delightful. Thanks for the one you sent us. It will be printed either this week or next. . . And how about the new competition? You will enter, I hope! Do!

Cousin Judith.

Dear Cousin Judith:

The story I sent in, "Candles," will be my story for the contest.

Au revoir,

Fannie Fleming.

So be it, Fannie. We'll save your story for the competition.

Cousin Judith.

DISCOVERED IN 1513

Four hundred and eleven years ago an intrepid Spanish explorer and adventurer, Juan Ponce de Leon by name, first set foot on a land of luxuriant sub-tropic growth known to-day as Florida.

Since that time Florida has become perhaps the most alluring winter resort in the world. A warm-watered ocean offers bathing at its best; a few miles offshore the monstrous and sporty tuna and tarpon await the more adventurous disciples of Izaak Walton; a marvellous beach fringed with exotic palms, broad motor highways, scores of green, velvet-smooth golf courses—the whole steeped in glorious sunshine and perfumed with the fragrance of fruit blossoms and sub-tropical flowers.

Nature has lavished her bounties on Florida, and man has moulded them for his convenience. There are facilities for every summer recreation—surf-bathing, deep-sea fishing, boating, golfing, tennis, riding, motoring. Beautiful hotels, splendid apartments and bungalows house the visitor in luxurious comfort.

Canadian National Railways can offer a splendid service in helping you plan your visit. Any agent will gladly supply full information and make your reservations.

The death is reported in Budapest of Leopold Vadash, one of the most prominent Jewish lawyers in Hungary and at one time Minister of Justice of the Austro-Hungarian empire. The deceased was 65 years of age and was retired for the past few years.

The first step of the Palestinian Government to settle labour problems was taken recently when Sir Gilbert Clayton appointed an arbitration commission to settle the feud in the building industry in Jaffa. Dr. Isaac Epstein was authorized to negotiate with both parties.

THOUSANDS ARE GOING HOME FOR THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving this year falling on Monday, November 10, allows an unusually long week-end, and permits travelling distances which would be impossible in a shorter period. Thousands are arranging to visit the home folks or out-of-town friends.

The Passenger department of the Canadian National Railways are making special arrangements on all routes to provide the public with every travelling comfort. Nevertheless, as it is impossible to estimate the number who will be travelling it would be wise for all those who anticipate taking advantage of this occasion to make their reservations as soon as possible.

The City Ticket Office is located at the northwest corner of King and Yonge Streets. Phones Adelaide 5179 or Main 4207.

SHEA'S THEATRE

Topping the bill at Shea's next week are Adelaide and Hughes and Blossom Seeley and Company.

Adelaide and Hughes are generally accepted internationally as "America's representative dancers."

Blossom Seeley this season calls her act "The Girl who Glorifies Syncopation." Evidently she has named her vehicle after herself, because Miss Seeley is "the girl who glorifies syncopation" herself. Miss Seeley is assisted by Bennie Fields. Warner Gault and Bert Fiske compose the rest of the company.

Miss Gould is a clever impersonator and has at her command the mannerisms of Belle Baker, Al Jolson, Julian Eltinge, George Cohan, and many other stage favourites. Dick Henderson is an English comedian.

Arthur Wanzer and Maybelle Palmer present "One Saturday Night," a comedy skit that is developed to exceedingly high power under the splendid guidance of these two farceurs. Kendal, Byton and Slater offer a moving picture episode depicting the troubles of a movie director trying to engage types for his new picture "Adam and Eve."

William Brack and his company appear in a sensational trampoline attraction; and Norman Telma, known as the eccentric comedy billiardist and pantominist. Shea's News Review.

EMPIRE

The weekly changed offering of Columbia burlesque at the Empire theatre will bring Lew Talbot's "Wine, Woman and Song" into view for its annual visit. Old only in its well-advertised title, "Wine, Woman and Song" will be new in everything that pertains to stage entertainment, including scenic displays, gowns for principal women and costumes for the twenty-four chorus girls. Matching the title in its standardized popularity will be the five comedians who will compete for laughs—Bert Bertrand, Harry LeVan, Nate Busby, Ken Christy and Chas. Cole. Every man-jack among these funsters is an experienced entertainer who knows where the laughs lie in lines and situations and who knows how to best disclose them. Gertrude Ralston, Dotty Bates, Irene Lindley and Alice Smith will be leaders of the feminine contingent and most of these ladies are favourably identified with Lew Talbot's shows in other seasons. The daily matinees will afford women members of the family to enjoy an afternoon at the theatre while being regaled with tuneful song, nimble dance and ensemble activities of kaleidoscopic charms.

STANDARD

The Standard Theatre will produce "The Step-child of the World" this Friday evening and Saturday matinee and evening, November 7. This allegory is a portrayal of the life history of the Jewish race through the ages when Yehides Bas Zion, daughter of Mother Zion, goes forth into the world with Father Time. Her numerous adventures from land to land form the play.

DAUGHTERS OF ISRAEL SOCIETY

Daughters of Israel Society held a grocery shower at the Zionist Building, Beverley and Cecil Streets, on Wednesday, October 22, in behalf of the joint bazaar of the Hebrew National Association and the Jewish Old Folks' Home. Thirty-seven parcels were collected and $3.00. These were delivered to the Jewish Old Folks' Home after the shower by a committee in charge of Mrs. C. Allen.

The society has hired the Standard Theatre for the evening of Tuesday, December 2. The play chosen is "In the World of Sin." Tickets from the members of the Society.

It was reported from Jerusalem that the Agudath Israel purchased a tract of land of 4,000 dunams in the valley of Jezreel. This is the first land purchase made by the Agudath in Palestine.

YOUNG JUDAEA

On Saturday evening, November 1, all the groups of Young Judaea met at the Zionist Institute to wind up the "Quarter Mile of Quarters" Campaign for the Keren Hayesod. D. Robinson, president, introduced the speaker, S. J. Rodman, of Montreal. He stressed loyalty to the Jewish people and pointed out the importance of the knowledge of Jewish history for every Jew. Mr. Rodman explained the value of the training groups and trained leaders.

Murray Griss played the violin.

A mass meeting was held at the Empire Theatre Monday afternoon, to celebrate the anniversary of Balfour Day, November 2, 1917, the day on which the British Government declared itself in favour of the establishment of a Jewish national homeland in Palestine. The meeting was held in connection with Young Judaea's campaign. Mr. Rodman delivered the main address. Other speakers were Dr. M. Schwartz and Lionel Gelber, National Vice-President of Young Judea. Harrison Lehrer, honorary president of the Toronto organization, presided.

In a resolution addressed to his Majesty King George V, the Jewish youth of Toronto declared their gratitude for all that Great Britain has done for modern Jewry in Palestine.

DIANA GIRLS

A Hallowe'en party was held by the Diana Girls' Club at the home of Miss Esther Dawson, Grange Avenue. Prizes were given for best costumes.

JEWISH UNEMPLOYED IN POLAND

The economic condition of the Jews in Poland has been growing worse during the past few months. The establishment of a government monopoly on tobacco has driven many manufacturers and traders into bankruptcy and caused thousands of labourers to remain without employment. Many tobacco manufacturers have transported their machinery to Palestine and hope to establish there factories. The movement has already caused the emigration of large numbers of Jews to Palestine and many others are ready to emigrate as soon as they obtain the necessary passports and visas. This brought about also a lack of work for the Christian Polish labourer and a delegation of labour unions called upon the Governor of Lodz with the request that the government adopt measures to improve the conditions.

Among 450 Jewish emigrants who left Roumania for Palestine during the past week, there were 230 Polish Jews, 150 Roumanian Jews and 70 Bulgarian Jews.

FAILED TO DO IT JUSTICE

Despite the efforts of song writers to sing the glories of California, they have failed in giving an adequate description of this land of remarkable loveliness. It is a land of perpetual summer, of romance and beauty, of rest and play. Cool, inviting mountains, sun-steeped slopes and vales, balmy breezes carrying the tang of growing fruit, bring the glow of health to the cheeks of the ailing. The world-weary find rejuvenation on the sunny bathing beaches, in motoring, riding, playing tennis or golf, while deep-sea fishing, surf-riding or aqua-planing keep the more active entertained.

There are two splendid routes to California: one by the famous "International Limited" of the Canadian National Railways via Chicago. This train leaves Toronto daily and gives a service unexcelled for speed, comfort and convenience.

The other route is by the "Continental Limited," leaving Montreal daily, and "The National" from Toronto daily via Vancouver and Victoria. This "All-Canadian" route is very popular with the regular tourists to California. It takes you through the world-famous Jasper National Park and Mount Robson Park, and the white-mantelled mountains are beautiful beyond description.

Any agent of the Canadian National Railways will gladly give you literature, complete information or make reservations for either route.

HAMILTON

PROGRESS LEAGUE, ANSHE SHOLOM

The P.L. of A.S. initial meeting of the season, on November 2, in the club rooms, was opened by President Julius A. Cohen. Rabbi Iser L. Freund, of Anshe Sholom Congregation, spoke on "The Youth Movement," outlining associations of the different countries throughout the world, such as the Wander-Voegel (Wandering Birds) of Germany, young people who, through oppression existing at home or at school, have left their homes. Their meetings are held at sunrise in the hills or woods, when they indulge in folk songs, prayer, folk dances, and a speech is given by the leader on some topic of interest to the group. Rabbi Freund also outlined the work of the "Youth Republic" of France, "League of Youth" in India, "The Practical Idealists Association" of Holland, and many others.

Miss Lillian Blumenthal sang; a humourous monologue was given by Abe Rosenthal, and a Chinese singing act in costume by Misses Anne Cohen, Sara Pearlstein, Lu Godelph and Lillian Blumenthal. Serving were Misses Ruth Levy, Lillian Blumenthal, Frances Glass, Anne Cohen, Sara Pearlstein, Esther Barnett and Mrs. J. Cohen. Dancing. Many visitors and out-of-town people were present.

The Dutch nation and Dutch Jewry suffered a big loss in the death of Professor Oppenheim, State Councillor, who died on Yom Kippur of this year at the age of 75. Amongst those present at the simple orthodox funeral were H.R.H. Prince Hendrik, Prince Consort to the Queen of Holland, representing Queen Wilhelmina; Prime Minister Ruys de Beerenbrouch; all the members of the State Council, which is the Dutch Privy Council; the mayors of the leading cities of Holland; the Chief Rabbi of the Hague and Amsterdam, and many more notable Dutch civic and clerical personages, both Gentiles and Jews. H.R.H. Prince Hendrik was amongst the first to scatter three shovelfuls of earth over the coffin. Professor Oppenheim was chairman of the congregation in the Hague and of many Jewish institutions.—"Centraal Blad."

Maurice Samuel Addresses Two Audiences Here

Maurice Samuel, of New York, author of "You Gentiles," spoke Monday before a mass meeting of Jewish women, at the Primrose Club, on Wilcox Street, in the afternoon, and before the Bnai Brith, in the Pompeian room at the King Edward, in the evening.

Mr. Samuel came to Toronto to further the Keren Hayesod campaign. He was a member of the United States pogrom investigation committee to Poland and of the inter-allied reparations committee, in Paris, Berlin and Vienna. He spoke first of the need for a new Zion. As a result of the war, Palestine had become, not a sentimental luxury, but a real racial necessity. The war had torn millions of the Jewish people from their European setting. There had been no dispersion like the dispersion which followed the war. There were a thousand expulsions like that of the Acadians. Friendless, homeless, driven from place to place, countless Jewish wanderers again roamed the world.

This had seemed at first merely one of the abnormal but temporary effects of the war, but the abnormal became normal and its only cure was the Zionist movement. The Jews of the United States had given $66,000,000 in relief of the sufferings of their evicted European brethren, but the need of the wanderers was not so much for physical as for psychical relief. They had been torn violently from their homes. They were like persons forced to endure without anaesthetics a severe surgical shock. They required not bread but a roof tree. They needed above all things a feeling of home and a home, a national area peculiarly and sacredly their own.

This comfort and security of home Europe could not, would not give them. In Russia, in Poland they were denied human rights. In the torn, war-racked body of Europe there was no place for the Jewish soul.

The truth was that Israel was a wandering mind seeking a physical body and Palestine was the only geographical medium for the physical manifestation of the Jewish soul. Repatriated Israel looking through the eyes of Palestine saw God where the stranger had been blind.

"Everywhere the Jew has gone in his search he has been received, used and then betrayed," said Mr. Samuel. With a credulousness and child-like faith, the Jew had given everything to add to the lustre of the country in which he has resided, finally to be evicted. The modern example was Germany, where they had assimilated in large numbers. Rathenau was such a Jew, and the Germans had killed him. Maximilian Harden was another who had tried hard to be a German, and the Germans had tried hard to kill him.

It was remarkable that the Jew, with what is called his business acumen, had not already realized the waste in his fruitless search.

"The time has come, not to beg, but to build," said Mr. Samuel. "The time has come that when you are driven from anywhere, you must go to Palestine. Let us build in one place that is our own. When the gates of America are shut like adamant, and the red sluices begin to flow with Jewish blood in Europe, then Jews will awake to the real meaning of Zionism."

The future of Palestine depended on Keren Hayesod. If this fund were a horn of abundance pioneers would flow into the land. The gates were open. There was no narrow turnstile of a quota. The Jew of America who controlled the funds controlled the quota.

Palestine was unlike other countries in this. There was no prejudice against immigrants. There was in fact a despairing cry and clamour for newcomers. Those already there would gladly cut their own working hours in two, to provide work for all.

Mr. Samuel told how Israel for two thousand years had waited for this day, when racial unity was about to become national unity. The dead no less than the unborn would praise those who helped to give to the soul of the race Palestine the physical body of the race.

Canadian Jewish Committee Planned

The formation of a Canadian Jewish Committee, along the lines of the American Jewish Congress, to consider all matters of interest to Jews in Canada, was forecast by A. Levin, president of the Jewish Immigrant Aid Society of Canada, to a REVIEW reporter this week. A meeting of the Immigrant Aid Society was held at the home Lyon Cohen on Thursday, October 30, to discuss the action of the Canadian government in refusing to admit further Jewish refugees, despite the agreement which it entered into with the I.C.A. to allow the entry of 5,000 Jewish refugees. Among those present at this meeting were S. W. Jacobs, Lyon Cohen, Rabbi Brickner, A. Rhinewine and S. B. Kauffman, of Toronto, S. Balkin, M. Sherer, Sam Pearson, Louis Cohen, Jos. Levinson, Sr., S. B. Haltrecht, S. Belkin and A. Levin, the president, who presided.

Inasmuch as the 3,000 refugees already brought into Canada are largely relatives of families resident in United States, it was felt that the Canadian immigration problem should be met with the assistance of the Americans and the American Jewish Congress. Canadians will confer with Louis Marshall and Dr. Stephen S. Wise in New York on Monday. It is expected that among those to attend this conference will be A. Levin, president of the Jewish Immigrant Aid Society of Canada; Lyon Cohen, honorary president of J.I.A.S.; S. W. Jacobs, M.P., K.C., honorary president of J.I.A.S.; S. Belkin, executive secretary of I.C.A.; S. B. Haltrecht, general manager of J.I.A.S., all of Montreal; Rabbi B. R. Brickner, vice-president of J.I.A.S., of Toronto, and Hart Green, former M.P. of Winnipeg. Although only 2,600 refugees have already arrived in Canada, another 400 left Trieste and are on their way here to be distributed throughout Canada.

BRANTFORD

A surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Harris, Pearl Street, where several friends of Mr. M. Nausbaum met to present him with a silver loving cup. The presentation was made by David Noble. Mr. Nausbaum responded.

A masquerade party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Levine, where Ruby Levine entertained her little friends. Lilly Noble was awarded first prize for girls' best costume; Oscar Hoffman was awarded a prize for boys' best costume. The guests heard selections from the radio.

The Brantford Hebrew Association's new officers are: J. Sachs, president; M. White, treasurer; R. Nadell, secretary; I. Farber, L. Rappaport, trustees.

Sam Lipovitch was a visitor in Toronto Sunday.

Mrs. Wm. Goezer, Grey Street, was a week-end visitor in Toronto.

A birthday party was held at the home of Miss Eva Lipovitch, Sheridan Street. Sophie Lipovitch danced. At midnight fifteen couples were served at a decorated table. Out-of-town guests were Harry Levine, Percy Bossir, Carl Losey, Misses Florence Losey, Lillian Friedman, Meyer Perlman, of Toronto; Morris Noble, of Woodstock; Harry Wise, of Paris.

A special meeting of the Brantford Hadassah Chapter was held at the Regent, Mrs. Samuel Fox's home. The chapter was named in honour of first president of local chapter, Mrs. Samuel Fox, The Florence Chapter. Luncheon was served.

Miss Eva Luninfeld, Toronto, was a week-end visitor at her home, Colborne Street.
